November 7, 2024

PURPOSE

On November 7, C4 will host a panel of technical experts to learn more about the process, challenges and practical logistics of developing a local Housing Production Strategy. Panelists include technical staff from a variety of Clackamas jurisdictions that are in the process of, or have recently completed, a local housing production strategy.

PANELIST QUESTIONS

1. What resources did you need to begin developing an HPS, and how long did it take to complete the process?
2. What challenges did you experience during the development of your HPS, and how did you overcome them?
3. What is one tool or strategy that your community included in the HPS?
4. Do you have the necessary resources to implement your local HPS strategies? If not, what additional resources are needed?
5. If you have already started implementation, then is your HPS producing the intended outcomes?
6. As other communities prepare to develop a housing production strategy, are there any state or process requirements that need to be clarified?

BACKGROUND

In Oregon, cities have a long-standing requirement to study and plan for their community's housing needs. In 2019, the Oregon Legislature adopted HB 2003 to address the statewide housing shortage.

House Bill 2003 includes a variety of changes to the existing statewide planning context. Legislation directs the Land Conservation and Development Commission to adopt a schedule for cities above 10,000 population to update their Housing Needs Assessments¹ (HNAs), either once every six years for cities within the Metro boundary or once every eight years for cities outside the Metro boundary. Additionally, HB 2003 creates a new requirement for cities to adopt a Housing Production Strategy report within a year after the deadline for an HNA. The report must list specific actions a city will take – such as revising regulations or providing financial incentives – to promote the development of housing to address all identified housing needs.

¹ Housing capacity analyses, otherwise known as “Housing Needs Analyses” or “HNAs”, are the current primary document local jurisdictions use to fulfill statewide planning Goal 10 obligations related to housing. At its core, an HNA consists of a housing projection over a 20-year horizon based on a population forecast, an inventory of lands available for housing, an analysis of the suitability of residential lands to accommodate needed housing, and a list of actions a local jurisdiction may consider to accommodate needed housing if there is an identified deficiency.
