Clackamas County at a glance

Clackamas County, named for the resident Clackamas Indians, was established on July 5, 1843. Oregon City, the county seat, was the first incorporated city west of the Rockies, the first capital of the territorial government in 1848, and the site of the first state legislative session.

Clackamas County encompasses 1,879 square miles — well over a million acres. It ranks 18th in size and third in the state of Oregon for total population, with an estimated 386,080 people. The largest cities in the county are Lake Oswego, with a population of 36,990; Oregon City, with a population of 33,390; West Linn, with a population of 25,425; and Wilsonville, with a population of 21,550 people.

Clackamas County is located in the northern Willamette Valley of western Oregon. Hood River and Wasco Counties bound Clackamas County on the east, with Multnomah County sitting to the north. Marion County borders the south and also on the west along with Yamhill and Washington Counties. Butte Creek forms most of the western boundary, while the eastern boundary generally follows the crest of the Cascade Mountains.

From an elevation at Oregon City of 55 feet, the County rises to 11,235 feet at the peak of Mt. Hood on its northeastern boundary, the highest point in the state. Forest resources, lakes, rivers and streams provide numerous opportunities for hunting and fishing, as well as camping and other forms of recreation. Special points of scenic and historic interest are Willamette Falls, the McLoughlin House, Lake Oswego, Wilhoit Mineral Springs, Mt. Hood, and Timberline Lodge.

Reports Processed

During 2013, the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office processed 56,421 reports that were entered into C.L.A.S.S. During 2012, the Sheriff's Office processed 56,714 reports. This is a decrease of 293 reports (or 0.5%) during 2013 compared to 2012.

The average number of reports processed during the previous three years was 57,534.0. The 56,421 reports processed during 2013 is a decrease of 1,113 reports or 1.9%.

This includes all reports (except for "specials" and follow-up reports) processed by the Sheriff's Office, including reports written in contract cities and courtesy reports written for other agencies. Some cases may include multiple report types. Each report is only counted once, regardless of the number of crimes or violations documented in the report. For the number of reported crimes, please see the "All Reported Crimes" chart on pages 10-11.

The chart below is a breakdown of report types and total number processed for each type during 2012, 2013, and the average for the previous three years of 2010, 2011, and 2012.

This only includes crimes reported to the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office within the Sheriff's Office's patrol districts. It does not include crimes reported in the contract cities of Damascus, Estacada, Happy Valley or Wilsonville. It also does not include "courtesy" crime reports for crimes occurring in other jurisdictions.

*Sex Crimes (other) includes Luring a Minor and Online Sexual Corruption of a Child, among other crimes. These two particular crimes are new crimes as of January 1, 2008 and are proactively investigated by the INTERCEPT task force. INTERCEPT detects online predators and arrests and prosecutes them before they meet vulnerable children in person.

INTERCEPT

Protecting Our Children from Online Predators

The Inter-agency Child Exploitation Prevention Team (INTERCEPT) was formed in August 2007 by the Sheriffs of Clackamas, Multnomah and Washington Counties.

INTERCEPT is currently staffed with a Detective, a Criminalist and a Sergeant from the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office; a Detective from the Multnomah County Sheriff's Office; and two Detectives from the Washington County Sheriff's Office.

Mission Statement

The mission of INTERCEPT is to investigate violation of state and federal laws, with an emphasis on crimes against children and to prosecute those violations in state and federal court. INTERCEPT investigations include, but are not limited to, violations of child sex crimes, child pornography, child exploitation and the use of computers to promote these crimes.

More than 65 million children ages 17 and younger are online in the United States.

According to a study conducted by the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children in partnership with Cox Communication:

- 61% of children ages 13-17 have a personal profile on a social networking site such as Facebook. Half of them have posted pictures of themselves online.

- 71% of teens report receiving online messages from someone they do not know, and 45% were solicited for personal information. Only 18% said they would tell a parent about receiving a message from someone they do not know.

- 40% said that when they receive a message from someone they do not know, they usually reply and begin a conversation with them.

- 14% have met someone in person who they first met online, and 30% have considered doing so.

- 33% reported that their parents know very little or nothing about what they do on the Internet.
