BACKGROUND:

Across the nation in times of intense personal crisis and community-wide disasters, the first access point for those seeking all types of emergency services is 9-1-1. The local and county emergency communications centers that receive these calls have emerged as the first and single point of contact for persons seeking immediate relief during an emergency.

Clackamas 911 Communications, known as C-COM, is celebrating the second full week of April (April 11-17, 2019) as National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week. This week, sponsored by the Association of Public-Safety Communications Officials (APCO) International and celebrated annually since 1981, honors the thousands of men and women who respond to emergency calls, dispatch public safety responders, and render life-saving assistance to the residents of Clackamas County.

This past year, C-COM answered 283,161 9-1-1 calls and non-emergency calls for residents in our jurisdiction and navigated text response for 372 separate incidents. 2020 was a year like no other in emergency services. Our employees worked tirelessly through a pandemic, evacuated our facility for 14 days due to local wildfires and made our way to work in an epic ice storm, but at all times, provided continuous call-taking and emergency dispatching to our community.

We presently have 27 certified dispatchers, 5 certified call-takers, 5 trainees, 5 supervisors, 3 training & quality improvement coordinators, 4 technicians and 3.75 administrative staff who staff and support C-COM.

RECOMMENDATION:

C-COM Staff recommends approval of the attached proclamation to honor and celebrate the important work that public safety telecommunicators do every day to support public safety responders and save the lives of residents in our area.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Bledsoe,
C-COM Director
